Enhancing our governance
Section 172 of the Companies Act 2006 requires a Director of a Company to act in the way they consider, in good faith, would be most likely to promote the success of the Company for the benefit of its members as a whole.

Risk management
A strong risk and compliance culture underpins our commitment to put clients and customers first and safeguard the interests of our shareholders. Our Board oversees the effectiveness of our Enterprise Risk Management Framework (ERMF).

ERM framework

The ERMF provides the foundation for risk management across the Group. It is built on three core pillars:

1. Risk Appetite – defined by the Board, this sets the boundaries within which the business may operate in pursuit of its objectives.
2. Accountability – clear ownership of processes, risks and controls across management, with delivery through disciplined execution.
3. Risk Culture – a mature culture rooted in 'doing the right thing', where colleagues feel confident to speak up and risk matters are escalated promptly and transparently.

Our risk management process then comprises:

- Risk identification and assessment
- Risk control and mitigation
- Risk reporting and monitoring

We operate a 'three lines model' with defined roles and responsibilities across the ERMF. The first line owns and manages risks and controls within the business. The second line designs, delivers and monitors the ERMF. The third line provides independent assurance to the Board on the effectiveness of first- and second-line activities.

Enhancements in 2025

We continually evolve our framework to meet the changing needs of the business and align with industry best practice. Key developments in 2025 included:

- Launch of a consolidated Group-wide ERMF, integrating all key risk processes and tools.
- Implementation of a first line control testing capability to assess key controls for design and operating effectiveness to a rigorous standard.
- Delivery of a risk culture program, comprised of clear communication and messaging on the importance of risk management, embedded via:
- New all-colleague training on ‘Risk & Control Fundamentals’.
- Introduction of a Group-wide colleague goal on ‘Operational Excellence’ to drive process improvement and control rigour.
- Transition to a new Governance, Risk and Control (GRC) system, leveraging best-in-class technology to further enhance the Group’s risk management posture.

Business risk environment

The business risk environment remains dynamic, with external market conditions continuing to evolve. Global political and economic uncertainty persists, increasing the likelihood that planning assumptions may be disrupted by unexpected developments. This volatility reinforces the need for the Company to remain agile, responsive, and disciplined in its approach to risk management.

Technology change and shifting client expectations continue to reshape the competitive landscape. These trends create both opportunity and risk, requiring the business to maintain momentum in modernising its proposition.

Operational resilience remains a central area of focus as cyber threats, technology dependencies, and third-party risks continue to grow in scale and sophistication. The Company is strengthening its resilience capabilities, enhancing controls, and developing mitigation plans to reduce vulnerabilities and minimise the risk of disruption to clients and customers.

The regulatory environment in the UK remains active and demanding. The Company continues to engage closely with regulatory expectations, particularly in relation to consumer duty, operational resilience, and anti-financial crime. Ensuring compliance with evolving regulatory standards remains a key component of the Company’s risk management framework and its commitment to delivering good outcomes for clients.

Evolving and emerging risks

The Aberdeen Group remains alert to a wide range of risks that may crystallise over different time horizons and influence the Group's strategy, operations and client outcomes. These risks span geopolitical, economic, societal, technological, legal, regulatory and environmental themes. Ongoing internal and external research continues to inform our understanding of how these risks may emerge, interact and develop over time.

Key areas of risk and opportunity for the Group include the continued adoption of modern technologies, heightened geopolitical uncertainty, significant shifts in global markets, the increasing sophistication of cyber threats and the accelerating impacts of climate change. These factors reinforce the need for proactive risk management, strategic agility and sustained resilience across the organisation.

Sustainability risks

We recognise our responsibility to shareholders, clients, customers, and all stakeholders to identify, assess, and manage sustainability-related risks across our activities. These risks include environmental factors such as climate change and biodiversity loss, as well as social and governance considerations that may impact long-term value creation.

As a wealth and investment firm, we integrate sustainability risk analysis into our advisory services to ensure alignment with client mandates and regulatory requirements. Our approach is informed by leading Group frameworks, including the Task Force on Climate-related Financial Disclosures (TCFD), Task Force on Nature-related Financial Disclosures (TNFD) and the International Sustainability Standards Board (ISSB), to enhance transparency and comparability for stakeholders.

We continue to deepen our understanding of these risks through data-driven insights and scenario analysis, enabling us to advocate for positive policy change and support a just transition. Our approach is designed to be adaptive and transparent, ensuring that we meet best practices while delivering resilient outcomes for our stakeholders.

Principal risks and uncertainties

The company categorises risks across fewer principal risk categories in the current year which have both internal and external drivers. This simplification ensures continued focus on key exposures and supports the corporate priority of simplifying how the Aberdeen Group thinks about and manages its business.

The principal risks and uncertainties facing the Company are set out below:

Principal risks to our business	Our approach to managing these risks:
Strategic Risk: These are risks that could prevent the company from successfully delivering business plans. These could include failing to meet client expectations, poor strategic decision-making or failure to adapt.	The company maintains a clear strategic direction supported by a business plan. This work underpins a broader transformation agenda designed to enhance the business proposition and prepare for future activity.
Financial risk: This is the risk of having insufficient financial resources, suffering losses from adverse markets or the failure or default of counterparties. It is impacted by flows experience, global market conditions, the fees we charge and margins on platforms.	Aberdeen manages financial risk through an approach that prioritises sustainable capital growth from 2026 onward, supported by rigorous stress-testing of financial resources to ensure appropriate resilience. This is reinforced by the Group Capital and Dividend Framework, which allocates and optimises financial resources across the organisation while meeting all relevant regulatory requirements.

Principal risks to our business	Our approach to managing these risks:
Conduct risk: We are committed to meeting clients' expectations for service delivery. There is a risk this is not achieved through operational activities or through the implementation of change programmes.	The business is structured to maintain a clear focus on adviser firms and their clients, supporting a strong client-first culture and alignment across operational activity and change initiatives. The Enterprise Risk Management Framework underpins the management of conduct risk, setting clear expectations around conduct goals and individual responsibilities. This is reinforced by a comprehensive Global Code of Conduct, and the FCA's Consumer Duty has been fully implemented, with continued emphasis on the Duty into day-to-day practices.
Regulatory and legal risk: High volumes of regulatory change can create interpretation, operational and implementation risks. Compliance failures can lead to poor customer and client outcomes, sanctions, reputation damage and income loss.	Relationships with regulators are based on trust and transparency, with compliance and legal teams providing support to senior managers across the business. The three lines of defence model helps embed compliance expectations into day-to-day operations and provides structured oversight. Established oversight and assurance activities including compliance advisory, monitoring and financial-crime testing operate on an ongoing basis to ensure robust regulatory adherence. Regulatory developments are actively monitored, and the business engages with regulators and industry groups to anticipate and respond effectively to new policy initiatives.
Process execution and trade errors: This is the risk that processes, systems or external events could produce operational errors that impact client, customer or shareholder outcomes.	Processes remain well-established within the business for reporting and managing incidents, risk events and issues. Underlying causes of error are monitored to identify areas for improvement, supporting a culture of accountability and continuous enhancement in how issues are addressed. Incidents are reviewed through defined incident management procedures to ensure consistent handling and learning. Risks associated with change activity are assessed and managed through structured change management processes, ensuring that operational changes are delivered in a controlled and well governed manner.

Principal risks to our business	Our approach to managing these risks:
People: People are the company's greatest asset, and the engagement and stability of the workforce is critical to the delivery of key business outcomes. Attrition in key teams can be disruptive and costly.	The business maintains a strong focus on colleague engagement, morale and attrition through ongoing engagement activities and regular feedback mechanisms. Compensation and benefits are kept under review to remain competitive within relevant labour markets, supporting the attraction and retention of key talent. Targeted approaches are used to strengthen recruitment and retention in critical roles, alongside continued emphasis on career development and operating model changes. Succession planning and effective handover arrangements remain important in mitigating disruption and preserving corporate knowledge, with a continued commitment to investing in and developing colleagues.
Technology Security and Resilience: There is a risk that technology may fail to keep pace with the business needs. With the increasing sophistication of external threat actors, there is also the significant risk of unauthorised access to systems and cyber-attacks. Third-party suppliers also present risks to the Aberdeen Group technology estate. These risks are relevant to a wide range of potential threats to the business including internal failure, external intrusion, supplier failure and weather events.	The company will also continue to invest in and enhance IT infrastructure controls and oversight of third-party suppliers. Heightened vigilance is maintained for cyber intrusion, with dedicated teams monitoring and managing cyber security risks. Mindful of internal (business) changes and the evolution of the external (threat) landscape, there is focus to strengthen operational resilience and cyber defences. Incident management and contingency planning processes are regularly reviewed and tested. Changes will be adopted following the new UK Operational Resilience Regulations (in March 2025).
Third party management: There is reliance on third parties to deliver key business activities and services and are exposed to a variety of delivery, operational, regulatory and reputational risks as a result.	The Third Party Risk Management Framework is well established. We have oversight arrangements in place to oversee services provided by third party suppliers.
Sustainability: The organisation's ability to operate responsibly and meet evolving environmental, social and governance expectations may be impacted by factors such as climate change, resource scarcity, regulatory developments and stakeholder scrutiny.	Sustainability risk is assessed and managed at a Group level, with activities that include annual sustainability risk assessments, monitoring of climate related impacts on the business, management of the corporate carbon footprint, and the application of governance and disclosure frameworks. These Group wide processes ensure that sustainability considerations, including regulatory and reputational risks, are integrated into the ERMF and overseen by the Board and ARC, providing the business with a consistent and robust approach to sustainability-related risk management.

Qualifying entity

This Company is a qualifying entity for the purposes of FRS 102, being a member of a group where the parent of that group prepares publicly available consolidated financial statements, including this Company, which are intended to give a true and fair view of the assets, liabilities, financial position and profit and loss of Aberdeen Group plc.

Statement of Directors' Responsibilities in respect of the Strategic Report, the Directors' Report and the financial statements

The directors are responsible for preparing the Annual Report and the financial statements in accordance with applicable law and regulations.

Company law requires the directors to prepare financial statements for each financial year. Under that law they have elected to prepare the financial statements in accordance with UK accounting standards and applicable law (UK Generally Accepted Accounting Practice), including FRS 102 The Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland.

Under company law the directors must not approve the financial statements unless they are satisfied that they give a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the Company and of the profit or loss of the Company for that period. In preparing these financial statements, the directors are required to:

- select suitable accounting policies and then apply them consistently;
- make judgements and estimates that are reasonable and prudent;
- state whether applicable UK accounting standards have been followed, subject to any material departures disclosed and explained in the financial statements;
- assess the Company's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern; and

The directors are responsible for keeping adequate accounting records that are sufficient to show and explain the Company's transactions and disclose with reasonable accuracy at any time the financial position of the Company and enable them to ensure that the financial statements comply with the Companies Act 2006. They are responsible for such internal control as they determine is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and have general responsibility for taking such steps as are reasonably open to them to safeguard the assets of the Company and to prevent and detect fraud and other irregularities.

The directors are responsible for the maintenance and integrity of the corporate and financial information included on the Company's website. Legislation in the UK governing the preparation and dissemination of financial statements may differ from legislation in other jurisdictions.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT TO THE MEMBERS OF ABERDEEN PORTFOLIO SOLUTIONS LIMITED

Opinion

We have audited the financial statements of Aberdeen Portfolio Solutions Limited ("the Company") for the year ended 31 December 2025 which comprise the Profit and Loss Account, Balance Sheet, Statement of Changes in Equity and related notes, including the accounting policies in note 1.

In our opinion the financial statements:

- give a true and fair view of the state of the Company's affairs as at 31 December 2025 and of its profit for the year then ended;
- have been properly prepared in accordance with UK accounting standards, including FRS 102 The Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland; and
- have been prepared in accordance with the requirements of the Companies Act 2006.

Basis for opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with International Standards on Auditing (UK) ("ISAs (UK)") and applicable law. Our responsibilities are described below. We have fulfilled our ethical responsibilities under, and are independent of the Company in accordance with, UK ethical requirements including the FRC Ethical Standard. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is a sufficient and appropriate basis for our opinion.

Going concern

The directors have prepared the financial statements on the going concern basis as they do not intend to liquidate the Company or to cease its operations, and as they have concluded that the Company's financial position means that this is realistic. They have also concluded that there are no material uncertainties that could have cast significant doubt over its ability to continue as a going concern for at least a year from the date of approval of the financial statements ("the going concern period").

In our evaluation of the directors' conclusions, we considered the inherent risks to the Company's business model and analysed how those risks might affect the Company's financial resources or ability to continue operations over the going concern period.

Our conclusions based on this work:

- we consider that the directors' use of the going concern basis of accounting in the preparation of the financial statements is appropriate;
- we have not identified, and concur with the directors' assessment that there is not, a material uncertainty related to events or conditions that, individually or collectively, may cast significant doubt on the Company's ability to continue as a going concern for the going concern period.

However, as we cannot predict all future events or conditions and as subsequent events may result in outcomes that are inconsistent with judgements that were reasonable at the time they were made, the above conclusions are not a guarantee that the Company will continue in operation.

Fraud and breaches of laws and regulations – ability to detect

Identifying and responding to risks of material misstatement due to fraud

To identify risks of material misstatement due to fraud ("fraud risks") we assessed events or conditions that could indicate an incentive or pressure to commit fraud or provide an opportunity to commit fraud. Our risk assessment procedures included:

- Enquiring of directors and inspection of policy documentation as to the Aberdeen Group PLC's policies and procedures to prevent and detect fraud that apply to this group company as well as enquiring whether the directors have knowledge of any actual, suspected or alleged fraud;
- Reading Board minutes to assess for any discussion of fraud;

We communicated identified fraud risks throughout the audit team and remained alert to any indications of fraud throughout the audit.

As required by auditing standards, and taking into account our overall knowledge of the control environment, we perform procedures to address the risk of management override of controls, in particular the risk that management may be in a position to make inappropriate accounting entries and the risk of bias in accounting estimates.

We also performed procedures including identifying journal entries to test based on high-risk criteria. These included journal entries posted by senior finance management and those posted to unusual accounts, as well as those which comprised unexpected posting combinations. We have also tested all material post year end closing journals.

On this audit we do not believe there is a fraud risk related to revenue recognition because the calculation of the revenue is non-judgmental and straightforward, with limited opportunity for manipulation.

We did not identify any additional fraud risks.

Identifying and responding to risks of material misstatement due to non-compliance with laws and regulations

We identified areas of laws and regulations that could reasonably be expected to have a material effect on the financial statements from our general commercial and sector experience and through discussion with the directors (as required by auditing standards) and discussed with the directors the policies and procedures regarding compliance with laws and regulations.

As the Company is regulated, our assessment of risks involved gaining an understanding of the control environment including the entity's procedures for complying with regulatory requirements, how they analyse identified breaches and assessing whether or not there were any implications of identified breaches on our audit.

We communicated identified laws and regulations throughout our team and remained alert to any indications of non-compliance throughout the audit.

The potential effect of these laws and regulations on the financial statements varies considerably.

Firstly, the Company is subject to laws and regulations that directly affect the financial statements including financial reporting legislation (including related companies legislation), distributable profits legislation, and taxation legislation and we assessed the extent of compliance with these laws and regulations as part of our procedures on the related financial statement items.

Secondly, the Company is subject to many other laws and regulations where the consequences of non-compliance could have a material effect on amounts or disclosures in the financial statements, for instance through the imposition of fines or litigation. We identified the following areas as those most likely to have such an effect: Key areas of financial services regulations, including Client Assets, Anti-Money Laundering and market abuse regulations and specific areas of regulatory capital and liquidity and certain aspects of company legislation recognizing the financial and regulated nature of the Company's activities and its legal form.

Auditing standards limit the required audit procedures to identify non-compliance with these laws and regulations to enquiry of the Directors and other management and inspection of regulatory and legal correspondence, if any. Therefore, if a breach of operational regulations is not disclosed to us or evident from relevant correspondence, an audit will not detect that breach.

Context of the ability of the audit to detect fraud or breaches of law or regulation

Owing to the inherent limitations of an audit, there is an unavoidable risk that we may not have detected some material misstatements in the financial statements, even though we have properly planned and performed our audit in accordance with auditing standards. For example, the further removed non-compliance with laws and regulations is from the events and transactions reflected in the financial statements, the less likely the inherently limited procedures required by auditing standards would identify it.

In addition, as with any audit, there remained a higher risk of non-detection of fraud, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal controls. Our audit procedures are designed to detect material misstatement. We are not responsible for preventing non-compliance or fraud and cannot be expected to detect non-compliance with all laws and regulations.

Strategic report and directors' report

The directors are responsible for the strategic report and the directors' report. Our opinion on the financial statements does not cover those reports and we do not express an audit opinion thereon.

Our responsibility is to read the strategic report and the directors' report and, in doing so, consider whether, based on our financial statements audit work, the information therein is materially misstated or inconsistent with the financial statements or our audit knowledge. Based solely on that work:

- we have not identified material misstatements in the strategic report and the directors' report;
- in our opinion the information given in those reports for the financial year is consistent with the financial statements; and
- in our opinion those reports have been prepared in accordance with the Companies Act 2006.

Matters on which we are required to report by exception

Under the Companies Act 2006 we are required to report to you if, in our opinion:

- adequate accounting records have not been kept, or returns adequate for our audit have not been received from branches not visited by us; or
- the financial statements are not in agreement with the accounting records and returns; or
- certain disclosures of directors' remuneration specified by law are not made; or
- we have not received all the information and explanations we require for our audit.

We have nothing to report in these respects.

Directors' responsibilities

As explained more fully in their statement set out on page 12, the directors are responsible for: the preparation of the financial statements and for being satisfied that they give a true and fair view; such internal control as they determine is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error; assessing the Company's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern; and using the going concern basis of accounting unless they either intend to liquidate the Company or to cease operations, or have no realistic alternative but to do so.

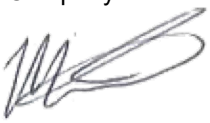

Auditor's responsibilities

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue our opinion in an auditor's report. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but does not guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with ISAs (UK) will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of the financial statements.

A fuller description of our responsibilities is provided on the FRC's website at www.frc.org.uk/auditorsresponsibilities.

The purpose of our audit work and to whom we owe our responsibilities

This report is made solely to the Company's members, as a body, in accordance with Chapter 3 of Part 16 of the Companies Act 2006. Our audit work has been undertaken so that we might state to the Company's members those matters we are required to state to them in an auditor's report and for no other purpose. To the fullest extent permitted by law, we do not accept or assume responsibility to anyone other than the Company and the Company's members, as a body, for our audit work, for this report, or for the opinions we have formed.

1 Accounting policies

Summary of significant accounting policies and key accounting estimates

The following accounting policies have been applied consistently to all years presented when dealing with items which are considered material in relation to the Company's financial statements.

Basis of preparation

The financial statements have been prepared under the historical cost convention unless otherwise specified within these accounting policies and in accordance with Financial Reporting Standard 102, the Financial Reporting standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland and the Companies act 2006.

Exemptions for qualifying entities under FRS 102

The company is a qualifying entity for the purpose of FRS 102, being a member of a group where the parent of that group prepares publicly available consolidated financial statements, including this company, which are intended to give a true and fair view of the assets, liabilities, financial position and profit and loss of the Aberdeen Group. The company has therefore taken advantage of the exemptions from the following disclosure requirements:

- Section 7 'Statement of Cash Flows' – presentation of a statement of cash flow and related notes and disclosures;
- Section 11 'Basic Financial Instruments' and Section 12 'Other Financial Instrument Issues' – Carrying amounts, interest, income/expense and net gains/losses for each category of financial instruments; basis of determining fair values; details of collateral, loan defaults or breaches, details of hedges, hedging fair value changes recognised in profit and loss and in other comprehensive income; and
- Section 33 'Related Party Disclosures' – Compensation for key management personnel.
- International Tax Reform – Pillar Two Model Rules – Amendments to IAS12.

Going concern

The Company's business activities, together with the factors likely to affect its future development and financial position, are set out in the Strategic Report.

The Company has made profit in the financial year and has sufficient financial resources. In preparing these financial statements, the Directors have also considered the impact of severe market shocks on Company forecasts, focusing specifically on:

- the current level of regulatory capital, which was £1,209k in excess of capital requirements at 31 December 2025;
- the level of liquid resources, including cash and cash equivalents;
- the potential impact of potential downside scenarios on revenue, assets flows and costs, including potential management actions;
- the effectiveness of the Company's operational resilience processes including the ability of key outsourcers to continue to provide services; and
- consideration of the going concern assessment of the Aberdeen Group plc.

In forming this opinion, the Directors have also considered any potential impact of macro-economic events like market volatility and the ongoing conflict in Ukraine on the going concern and viability of the Company.

Based on a review of the above factors the Board is satisfied that the Company remains well capitalised and has sufficient liquidity to withstand potential severe market shocks.

Consequently, the Board is satisfied that the Company has and will maintain sufficient resources to continue to meet its liabilities as they fall due for at least 12 months from the date of approval of the financial statements. Accordingly, the financial statements have been prepared on a going concern basis.

Changes in accounting policy
No new standards, interpretations and amendments effective for the first time from 1 January 2025 are deemed to have had an impact on the Company.

Revenue recognition
Revenue comprises the fair value of the consideration received or receivable for the provision of discretionary fund management services and managed portfolio services:

Management fees are generated on managed portfolio services and are generally based on agreed rates as a percentage of AUM. Management fees income is recognised based on the value of AUM and the fees are recognised when it is highly probable that a significant reversal will not be required. It is collected quarterly in arrears. The revenue is measured at the fair value of the consideration received or receivable.

Net Finance income
Interest income and costs are derived on cash and cash equivalents. Interest is recognised on an accruals basis using the effective interest rate method.

Administrative expenses
Expenditure incurred by the Company is recognised in the month to which it relates. Expenses relating to a month that have not been invoiced are accrued, while invoices received and paid for expenses relating to future periods are recognised as prepayments.

Cash and cash equivalents
Cash and cash equivalents are basic financial instruments and include cash at bank and highly liquid investments. Cash and cash equivalents are initially measured at fair value and subsequently at amortised cost.

Financial instruments
(i) Financial assets
Amortised cost
These instruments are non-derivative financial assets with fixed or determinable payments that are not quoted in an active market. These instruments are included in current assets and consist of amounts from Group undertakings, accrued income and other receivables. These instruments are initially recognised at fair value, net of any transaction costs, and subsequently at amortised cost using the effective interest rate method.

Impairment of financial assets
An expected credit loss impairment model is applied to financial assets measured at amortised cost. Impairment losses representing the expected credit loss in the next 12 months are recognised unless there has been a significant increase in credit risk from initial recognition or they relate to trade receivables in which case lifetime expected losses are recognised.

(ii)Financial Liabilities
Amortised cost
These instruments include amounts owed to Aberdeen Group undertakings, group relief payable and other payables. These instruments are initially recognised at fair value and subsequently at amortised cost using the effective interest rate method.

Current & deferred tax
The tax expense comprises both current tax and deferred tax expense.

Current tax is the expected tax payable on taxable profit for the year and is calculated using tax rates and laws substantively enacted at the balance sheet date.

A deferred tax asset represents a tax deduction that is expected to arise in a future period. It is only recognised to the extent that there is expected to be future taxable profit or investment return to offset the tax deduction. A deferred tax liability represents taxes which will become payable in a future period as a result of a current or prior year transaction.

Where local tax law allows, deferred tax assets and liabilities are netted off on the statement of financial position. The tax rates used to determine deferred tax are those enacted or substantively enacted at the balance sheet date that are expected to apply when the deferred tax asset or liability are realised.

Deferred tax is recognised on temporary differences arising from investments in subsidiaries and associates unless the timing of the reversal is in our control and it is expected that the temporary difference will not reverse in the foreseeable future.

Current tax and deferred tax is recognised in the profit and loss account except when it relates to items recognised in other comprehensive income or directly in equity, in which case it is credited or charged to other comprehensive income or directly to equity respectively.

The Company and the Group apply the exception to recognising and disclosing information about deferred tax assets and liabilities related to Pillar Two income taxes.

2 Judgements in applying accounting policies and key sources of estimation uncertainty.

The preparation of the financial statements can necessitate the use of key estimates and judgements. These estimates and judgements can affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, contingent or otherwise, at the balance sheet date as well as affecting the reported profit or loss for the year. In the process of applying the Company's accounting policies, management has made no key estimates or judgements.
